DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

3. Claims 1-3, 7, 9, and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over JP 04 055 078 A, and further in view of JP 2000 042769.

JP '078 discloses a laser welding head controlling system comprising a laser irradiating body with a laser inlet and outlet, plural semiconductor lasers to oscillate plural linear laser beams configured to be crisscrossed (interpret as the beams to hit the seams) over the seam line for measuring a welding state, an ITV camera, and an image processor to process the image of the welding state (figures and abstract).

However, JP '078 fails to disclose a CCD camera with a band pass filter, a condenser, and a processor using CAD data.

JP '769 discloses the method of using a CCD camera with a band pass filter, a condenser for the purpose of which condenses the light emitted from a weld zone as becomes the optical axis and the same axle of a laser beam which is irradiated by the work is formed. The purpose of the band pass filter is to change into the voltage signal according to light receiving intensity with the photodiode and amplifier as an optoelectric transducer, and is outputted to the welding state judging processor.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time applicant's invention was made to provide a condenser and band pass filter as taught by JP '769, in JP '068 in order to send signal of the welding state to the processor.

4. Claims 4-6, 8 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over JP '068 as applied to claim 4, 7, and 10 above in paragraph 3, and further in view of Anderson et al (US 5,938,446).

JP '068 fails to teach using CAD for control welding. However, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time applicant's invention was made to have CAD being part of the processing unit, since CAD is well known in any data retrieving art, to be used as a data collection software. Therefore, incorporating the CAD data software would have been a desired choice or depending on the allowable expense of the project.

Furthermore, Anderson et al is introduced to show the importance of CAD for read-off of data which is input to a CAD program. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time applicant's invention was made to provide CAD as taught by Anderson et al, in JP '068 in order to achieve a quick response.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-11 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
